Mr. Harding's Wisdom
Two Items From Europe
Hope and Common Sense
Insulting Monkeys
By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright 1922 Star Newspaper

Mr. Harding's debts commission starts in to collect the billions that Europe owes us. If it can.

More important is President Harding's earnest backing of the plan to spend $500,000,000 as a starter on reclamation of land, with irrigation and drainage. That wise spending of money, followed up persistently, will give greater wealth to this country, by far, than the amount of our foreign debt.

Two items from Europe. Zita, once Empress of Austria, will soon give birth to a child. The father is dead. To the island of Madeira, where Zita lives in exile, they have taken a carload of earth from Hungary. The earth, soil of Hungary, will be spread out on the floor of Zita's room that the child may be born on Hungarian soil—with an eye to inheriting the throne some day. It takes more than a carload of earth to make a people forget so soon what royalty cost them.

European item number two. Pests are attacking the roses that grow in the valleys of Rhinania, at the foot of the Balkan mountains. The roses are used to make attar of roses. They are grown in place of tobacco—question of taste.

Cousin Doyle tells more about life in spiritualism, and renders public service. After you hear that he says you are reconciled to this life, and all its sorrows.

One medium persuaded the spirit of Madame Palladium, "this life a medium, to come back and see Cousin Doyle." The Doyle came, as you would expect, throwing a lambent light in the air, upstirring tables and making a little toy piano tinkle.

In the spirit heaven you have horses, dogs and other pets, says Cousin Doyle. Presumably, also, raiders, typhoid fever and other diseases that pets carry with them.

Old men become strong, old women become beautiful in spirit, land. Husbands and wives that didn't agree on earth split apart up there.

After leaving this earth the spirit goes to sleep for three whole days, to rest, and then thoroughly and prevent shock on waking up in the next world. What difference would three days or three million years make, once you are asleep? When you wake, eternity starts, where time is nothing.

It is natural that puzzle—humanity, not knowing how it got here, or what is to come, or that it leaves, should ask questions. But it is amazing that any human should be satisfied with such silly answers and preposterous propositions.

The red Indians at least imagined a human's building a great, great, eternal home for the feeble-minded.

Lady Astor is here, talking for the benefit of her American friends. In her first speech, she grooves Providence's wisdom.

Long ago Mr. Astor, her father-in-law of Lady Astor, ran for public office in the United States and was beaten.

Disgusted, he decided that America did not appreciate him, and took himself and his income to London and became a British subject. Apparently, he was very keen in that, the mothers of New York would never have produced babies to increase the Astor income next to London.

But wait.

Mrs. Astor tells you that her husband, son of the Astor empire, persuaded her to run for Parliament. She ran and, thanks to his good advice and money, plus her energy, was elected.

That election did a great deal for women in England and in America alike. It inspired the minds of women toward public office, which is what the world needs.

THE LITTLE "WIFE" OF THE LITTLE DISGRACED ASTOR, WHEN HE TOOK HER MONEY TO EUROPE, REALLY TOOK BRITISH WOMEN INTO POLITICS. THE PUBLIC SERVICE WORKS ALL THE MONEY THAT MOTIVATES THE NEW YORK RANGES HAD BEEN PAYING TO HIM.

Lord George talked helpful common sense to newspaper men at Genoa yesterday.

He expects real results from the conference, does not like too seriously the German-Turkish treaty, or believe that the conference intended to wreck the conference.

He predicts that the conference will produce an agreement for all nations but to attack each other without loss deliberation. He believes the conference marks the beginning of Europe's reconstruction. Before all is a hospital—and hope is 99 per cent of recovery.

Under the ocean, over three miles of cable, comes this from London: Pans will be carried very big and gorgeous. They will be crisscrossed with wires.

BOSTON JEWS IN MASS MEETING SUNDAY

How Dr. Georg Lelkin, chief rabbi of Kazan, Russia, and professor of jurisprudence in the University of Kazan, discovered the fate of eighteen members of his own family when officiating as chairman of the special committee

The woman who, since her arrival in this country, has married the brother of her late fiancé, will address the meeting in the afternoon; and later be an honor guest at the Elysium Club.

Question Box for Radio Fans

J. T. Central Falls, R. I.—You are about forty miles from the nearest broadcasting station (Providence) and it is impractical whether you would be able to hear it. Central Falls is generally rated for twenty-five miles but some work in Providence up to thirty miles and other stations in Massachusetts. You will need a vacuum tube detector set to get Medium relay.

W. H. East Hingham—If you tune in a double side, you will find it all right. Your trouble is probably low connections or poor ground.

J. R. B. Manchester—The wave length of the representative receiver shown in the American was from 200 to 400 meters. However, coils may be obtained at any good radio store. The 125 coil would reach about 125 and the 150 coil about 150. The phones cost about $1.50. Ordinary over-the-air sets are not so satisfactory. The making of a variable condenser at home is something of an undertaking, and I would not advise the attempt.

D. L. North Attleboro—As you have shown your hookup, you have connected both aerial and ground to each of the two sides on your tuner. This is incorrect, as it does not allow you to tune your secondary circuit which is just as important as the primary. Connect the aerial to one side, and the ground to one end of the coil and then the secondary circuit will use the other side and the other end of the ground. This will enable you to tune both circuits. The broadcast schedule appears in the American every day. The fact that your telephone was grounded to the same wires as your set would make no difference.

D. S. Hockley—The ends of the aerial may be connected or not, but never gives you the best service. WJAZ is the Eastern Radio Institute on Boylston street, Boston.

E. L. C. There is no advantage in using more than three vertical conductors with a crystal set. They may be distributed one in series in the antenna, one in parallel in the secondary, and one shunted across the phones.

TO USE RADIO SET WITHOUT AN AERIAL

"I cannot put on an aerial. I have no way in which I can use a receiving set."

This has been the appeal of so many that a work on practical solutions for outdoor aerials were advertised. While there are several such solutions, their effectiveness is generally far below that of a good aerial. This means that you lose you are near the transmitting station, or you have a very good ground, or you have a very good ground.

If you live well above the ground, say on the seventh or eighth floor, an ordinary wire hung out the window and coming within six or seven feet of the ground will often serve as an aerial. It should be kept as far from the side of the building as possible.

CLOCK COIL ANTENNA.
In the laboratories of several manufacturers of radio material, experts are carrying on experiments with the long, or clock coil antenna. This coil is wound on a wooden frame, and the wire is attached to the tuning coil, and not touching the radio set. The other end of the wire is attached to the other end of the ground wire.

The long is essentially ten or more turns of wire wound on a four-foot square frame. Both ends of the wire are attached to the tuning coil, and not touching the radio set. The other end of the wire is attached to the other end of the ground wire.

Stars on American's Big Radio Concert

Next Sunday

The program at the Boston American radio concert to be held at Medford Hills, Sunday, at 8:15 p. m. is as follows:

An Irish Lullaby. Ancient Air. Gertrude Crowley.
Song. Selected.
Julietta Day.
Aria from Sanson and Belshazzar.
Florence Lennox solo.

Violin—Meditation from Thais. Massenet.
Molly on the Shore. Grieg.
Ruth Stickey.
Reading from Romeo and Juliet.
Mary Young.
Song. History of the U. S. S. A. From Greenwich Village Follies.
Cecil Cunningham.
Waltz Song from the Last Waltz.
Eleanor Palmer.

Three feet deep, mounted on some kind of a stand, will be all right to wind it with. Make no turn, again, each turn about three inches apart.

The two ends of this wire go to the condenser and tuning coil as shown in the diagram. Make these connections with enough wire to allow the coil antenna to be raised on the axle of the stand. This is strongly directional and will pick up signals from the station in the direction of the transmitting station. It will be sideways of the antenna.

The coil antenna will work best in doors and out. It will cut out a certain amount of interference, but it is, however, less efficient than an outdoor aerial for strong reception.

SAYS HUSBAND THREATENED TO KILL HER

"He threatened to kill me," Mary H. O'Keefe, pretty telephone operator employed in the South as change at No. 13 Oxford street, told her husband, Patrick H. Keefe, in Domestic Relations Court.

"He called at the telephone exchange," Mrs. Keefe lives with her parents in East Boston.

change in an automobile on April 18," she said. "When I came out with another girl he asked me to go home with him. I refused. We were then living apart. He then made a move as if to draw a gun and said: 'If you don't let me go, I will shoot you.'"

The case was continued until Wednesday next.

Kearse lives at No. 413 Boston street, Lynn. He surrendered to Boston police after hearing his young wife had sworn out a warrant charging him with threatening her bodily harm.

BONUS ACTION BLOCKED BY HARDING

Order of Republican Senators
Cools With Word From White House

By International News Service.
Washington, April 21.—President Harding was understood to have succeeded today in persuading certain Republican Senators to abandon their plan to stampede soldiers' bonus legislation through the Senate.

These Senators, most of whom are up for re-election this year, had served notice that unless the Senate Finance Committee reported a soldiers' bonus bill within three weeks, they would join the Democrats in voting to discharge the committee from further consideration of the bonus. The Democrats have been contemplating such a move for several days in the expectation that it would be successful because of the demand that a bonus bill be passed quickly.

Word passed around on the Republican side by administration spokesmen that the President was supposed to precipitate action was said, however, to have cooled perceptibly the ardor of certain Senators for immediate bonus legislation.

It was explained that the President was of the opinion that ample funds from the Federal debt to finance the bonus would be forthcoming by July 1, and that if the Senate would refrain from hasty legislation the situation would be satisfactorily adjusted without any embarrassment to the treasury.

WHEN a man buys transportation, he knows how far he can go before he has to pay another fare. But when he buys a suit of clothes, he never knows how many months of wear it will give him before he has to buy another.

Such being the case, it doesn't require an especially brilliant turn of mind to perceive the advantage of buying clothes that have an established reputation for high quality and correct style and of buying them in a store that has an established reputation for progressiveness, square dealing and value-giving. That's the safest and surest way.

SHEVLIN TOSSES INTO RING AGAIN

By JACK CONWAY.

Eddie Shevlin, who still claims the New England welterweight championship, is fit for a fight and that he will soon be ready to take a fling at any of the opposition. Shevlin was put out of commission, prior to his tussle with Nate Sargent, by a cut on his forehead which was suffered from a right hand which stopped forth and gave him a black eye.

Shevlin has been working out for a week and his injured arm has recovered all its former strength. When next, that Dartmouth boxer causes a fling of trouble for the opposition.

By TAD RUNNING AND RELIGION WIN FOR DE MAR

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Throughout the long grid from Ashland in Boston, clear to the glorious record-breaking finish, there were no more confident, more enthusiastic workers for the Melrose women than members of the latter's Sunday school class, and youngsters in the Melrose Baptist Church, sons of the Boy Scouts, of which Clarence DeMar is the scoutmaster.

DeMar is a popular with the boys, and his reputation and record as a long distance runner has around about it, in that sport, among Melrose boys. With DeMar being their idol, they have a special feature of being at many of their games, upon which the necessary words and words have to be followed their popular leader's example in setting new records for the B. A. race.

ALL JES FORCED RUSS TREATY, SAYS BORAH

By SENATOR WM. E. BORAH
Written Exclusively for International News Service, Copyright, 1922, Washington, April 21.—The Russian-German treaty, or alliance, is the natural, inevitable result of the policy of the allies, or associated powers, since the armistice.

It is as logically their work as if they had written the treaty and sent it to Russia and Germany "sign here."

When the Four Power Pacific treaty was signed, Russia, as a Pacific power, was wholly ignored. Since that time Japan, one of the signers of the Four Power alliance, has been pushing her troops further and further into Russian territory. When the powers assembled at Geneva, three of the great powers went down to Lloyd George's villa and discussed what they would probably do with Russia and Germany. Russia was advised of the conditions under which she must accept and Germany was advised that the question of reparations could not be considered.

It was inevitable.

Russia made a suggestion about armistice and France and England. Now after the four-power alliance and after the first maneuvers at Geneva, the natural, inevitable result was the coming together of Russia and Germany. Germany was advised of the conditions under which she must accept and Germany was advised that the question of reparations could not be considered.

Two Very Good Pictures

Unfortunately, They Do Not Represent Things Exactly as They Are

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

PAST YEARS—

HOW MR. BAER SEES THE LABOR VOTE IN THE PAST

The two pictures in this column are made by Mr. Baer, recently in Congress representing the farmers of North Dakota, now making first-class cartoons for that first-class workman's paper, "Labor," published at Washington, D. C.

Mr. Baer, eternally hopeful, as we all should be, makes these two pictures to show what he tries to believe is the situation as regards the labor vote.

In the first picture you see a tiny little animal, condescendingly patted on the head by a powerful big man. Now for the second picture.

THIS YEAR!

THE LABOR VOTE AS MR. BAER SEES IT TODAY

Here you see what Mr. Baer thinks, hopes and BELIEVES will be the gigantic awe-inspiring labor vote at the next election.

Unfortunately for labor, the election will NOT be like this picture. When the votes are counted, the labor vote will be divided up, and except for little demonstrations here and there, there won't be any real labor vote. Part of labor's vote will be Democratic, part will be Republican, and labor will have little to do with it.

Labor with a good job will vote Republican, labor out of a job, to some extent, will vote against Republicanism, although not always. The farmers are working through their "bloke" in the Senate. They are beginning to stick together and work and vote together. Perhaps workmen, organized labor and other labor, skilled labor and unskilled labor, will do the same later, compelling politicians to think about those who do the country's work, and about the five millions that have no work to do.

Just at present these two pictures represent Mr. Baer's fine enthusiasm. They do not represent facts.

An Unjust Honor

Name of Admiral Sims Should Not Be Taken to Represent the Navy in New Auditorium at Lowell

Mr. Edward F. Mcweeney calls our attention to the following facts:

There is a new auditorium to be erected in Lowell which we are informed is to bear the name of the officers of the United States who distinguished themselves in the recent Great War. The name of the only naval officer, we are told, is to be that of Admiral Sims.

It would be a pity if we should bestow our honors so unwisely and unjustly. The great requirements of patriotic service need to the satisfaction of duty done, is honor. If we fail to do honor justly as a nation we shall not long have distinguished and self-sacrificing patriots.

Admiral Sims distinguished himself during the war. He was, according to the naval authorities at home, appointed as our representative to the British naval headquarters where he was liked in Great Britain and probably because they asked to have him there. He there surrendered all initiative. His admiration for the British became such an obsession that he placed the recommendations of the American naval officers before British authorities before he would act on them. He even delayed express orders from his superiors in Washington, if the British hesitated about them, because they had not originated them.

The greatest achievement of our navy during the war was the North Sea mine barrage, which spelled death to the German submarine campaign. It was conceived by our own naval officers in Washington, submitted to Admiral Sims, pooh-poohed by him because not British in origin, and ordered to be honored as the supreme commander of the American fleet during the war. It may surprise the American people to learn that Sims had no such office and it will certainly astonish the people to think that they were made to believe that he was so important when he was not. But if our people knew the power of British propaganda, of organized British agencies for controlling American public opinion in this country, they would not be surprised at anything.

Increase the Allowance

Let us hope that the Legislature will increase the allowances made by the Workmen's Compensation act for those provided for under the act.

The rise in the cost of living has made a dollar worth so much less than it was worth when the Workmen's Compensation act was passed that those who are its beneficiaries do not today get nearly so much benefit from the act as it was intended that they should.

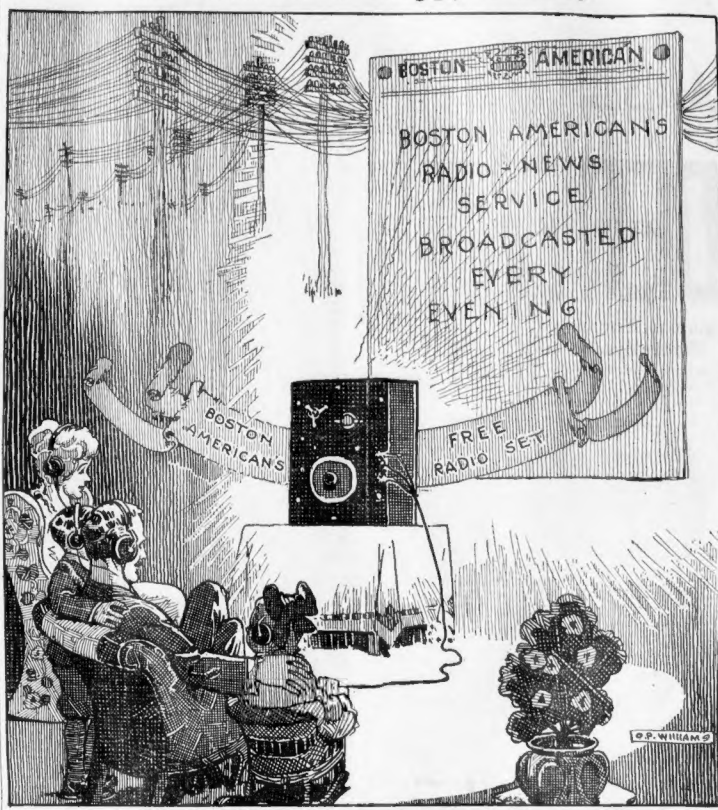

Governor Cox has called attention to this injustice to the workmen of the State and the Committee on Judiciary, under his leadership, has reported a bill increasing the compensation.

We hope that the bill be passed.

Be One of a Happy Family

Somebody's Birthday

Copyright, 1922, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

PEOPLE born on this day of the year are endowed in general with very straightforward and affectionate natures. They also have unusual clarity of judgment and a keen sense of justice.

If today is your birthday you should do well to make your sense of humor an internal as well as an external trait; for while you are unusually good-natured and amiable, there are many times when you are given over to melancholy. Laughter has been invented by man to palliate his sufferings. It is always a sign of moderation.

Today is full of promise. Fortify all times and sign all papers. The ensuing year of your life will be active and successful, and although care should be given to any exchange of money, dealings in foreign currency should be done with great precision.

A child born today will be industrious and dominant and will make a good lawyer and diplomat.

Famous people born today: Henry W. Shaw (Book Billings), humorist.

John Blair—Naturalist.

John K. Spence—Journalist.

Charlotte Bronte—Novelist.

Smiles

"PUFFICALLY TRUTHFUL!" He was very black and from the South and looking for a job. "There's a job open at the Eagle Laundry," said the man at the desk of the employment agency. "Want it?"

The applicant shuffled uneasily. "Tell you how it is, boss," he said. "Ah sure don't want a job mighty bad. But to be puffically truth, Ah ain't never washed no eagle."

THE MATTER IS LEFT TO THEM.

People who don't care for baseball are still wondering whether anything can really be done to stop the war.

CHEER UP, GUYS! SMILE A BIT

There are too many people who have no sense of humor. Most of them are in the manufacturing business.

THE SAFEGUARDING OF IMPERIALISM

By Tarakanath Das, International Secretary Friends of Freedom for India.

ALMOST every few days new battalions of British soldiers are being sent to India from England.

This is to safeguard British imperialism in India. This means mounting up of military expenditure of the British government in India, where the people are held to death by high taxation and poverty caused by exploitation.

The situation is doubly interesting because the government of India is facing bankruptcy as well as collapse.

In the budget statement of the government of India, presented to the legislative assembly by the finance member, Sir W. H. Dalrymple, revealed that instead of the small surplus for the year which had been expected, there was a deficit of no less than 34 crores of rupees ($100,000,000).

This deficit occurs in a country where the average annual income is less than ten dollars a year. If the full annual income of over eleven millions of people of India should be confiscated then the deficit of the budget could be made.

Prices are soaring high in India because of the bad industrial condition and because of the paralysis.

What are you afraid of?

If you have never acted on your own judgment of course you are afraid, but you appreciate how much farther you might have gone toward success if you had been less timid.

Make it your business to act first when you see an opportunity.

You can see where you might have benefited greatly if you had taken the helm.

Then why don't you branch out and make up your mind that the next chance you have you will get into the game in earnest and lead off?

If you are not willing to lead off when you see the opportunity, you have no right to criticize others in the moves they make.

Make it your business to act first when you see an opportunity, not in a wavering, wobbly way, but straight from the shoulder. Go ahead.

You will surprise yourself and gain confidence and GROW.

Auction Bridge Bidding

By S. S. Carvalho.

ARTICLE XI.

MANLY players are at sea as to what really constitutes a solid Initial one No Trump declaration. They look over their cards, find no long Major suits, and bid No Trump, because they see several face cards and perhaps an Ace. It may be a sound No Trump and may be not. One is as likely as the other.

A sound one No Trump hand must have a little more than average high card strength with three guarded suits. Experience shows that the greater strength should be equal.

There are two good methods of calculating No Trumpers. One is by the Robertson rule, which is universally accepted by the English Bridge writers and in London Clubs. The other method is based on the scale used in Auction Pitch, and which, although both sound and simple, is not forward by only one American writer. It is approved and used, however, by many good players.

The Robertson rule makes Aces count 1 point, Kings 4, Queens 3 and Jacks 1. Under the equivalent value of a King, Queen and Jack, which would count up to 40 points. An additional Queen value of makes up the necessary 19 points.

The rule based on the Auction Pitch scale mathematically figures out exactly the same as the Robertson rule. Since it is the easier of the two to remember we have adopted it here.

Under it Aces count 4 points, Kings 3, Queens 2, and Jacks 1. All the Aces and face cards in the deck total up to 40 points. The numbered cards are not considered. An average hand is one-fourth of forty, which is 10 points. The additional strength of a Queen of the two to remember Initial one No Trump under this rule is 12 points with three guarded suits.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

IMMUNE FROM DANGER

Exhaustive investigations made at the University of Illinois prove that, even are not germ carriers. We don't care. They could be carried away from us anyhow.

Boston was one of the first—if not the first—of American cities to open municipal free lodging houses to the unemployed.

SEEN AND HEARD

By Lambert and Daily

A RESOLUTION offered by PRESIDENT FRANK O. ALLEN of the Senate in protest against the treatment of disabled veterans by the national government has been adopted by both Senate and House. Because of the wide influence they wield, presiding officers of the two branches rarely introduce bills in their own name. The last notable exception was when a resolution endorsing the Hearst campaign for rebuilding devastated France was presented on the joint petition of VICE-PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, then President of the Senate, and GEORGE BISHOP COX, then Speaker of the House.

FORMER CITY COLLECTOR EDWIN V. S. PARKE is very busy at present making the necessary plans for the reception of the delegates who are to attend the annual convention of the National Educational Association which meets in this city next July.

One more medal of appreciation has been bestowed upon MAYOR CURELY. This time it is the French government who is the donor. Japan has given him recognition as a member of the Rising Sun and the Balkan States have contributed a medal.

It might be interesting to note that the city sent that one sees in passing, all over the city, advertising the Centennial Celebration, was adopted on January 2, 1922.

The Cradle of Liberty has been rocked many a time, but never more pleasantly than when Mayor CURLEY introduced EX-MAYOR THOMAS NORTON HART, who is ninety-three years old, at the opening exercises of Boston's Centennial Celebration.

PARK COMMISSIONER MYRON P. LEWIS, the unpaid members of that body, is taking a keen interest in his present duties.

The widow of a man killed in industry receives but $10 a week under the Workmen's Compensation Law. A bill reported favorably by the Judiciary Committee of the Legislature would increase the amount to $15 a week. The increase is favored by the Industrial Accident Board.

The crowds of unemployed men are so great that the city employment bureau will in a few days be moved to the basement floor from Room 305 in City Hall Annex.

GARRETT P. SERVISON EARTH'S SPEED

By Garrett P. Serviss

Does the earth rotate just as fast on its axis today as it did centuries ago? If not, it is slowing up or getting faster?

Is a day in June (meaning from midnight to midnight) of the same actual length as a day called day in December?

Also, are the revolutions of the earth around the sun now exactly even length to those of thousands of years ago—interested reader?

As far as any measurement is concerned, we do not know that the rotation period of the earth has changed. There is evidence of a retarding effect of the earth's rotation, and we may say that for all practical purposes, the length of the year and the length of the day are unaltered.

For instance, meteors are continually falling upon the earth and adding to its total mass. The law of mechanics says that the consequences of this must be a tendency of the earth to rotate a trifle more slowly. On the other hand, if the earth is contracting in size, its rate of rotation must increase, so there are two opposite tendencies acting simultaneously and each, perhaps, neutralizing the effect of the other.

A Slight Result

There is another pair of forces which may also affect the earth's rate of rotation. One of these is the breaking action of the tides, which tends to slow the rotation of the globe, and the other the heating effect of vast quantities of radioactive elements in the interior of the earth which continually counteract the tendency to shrink, but may perhaps not be actual increase in size. This last would have, like tidal friction, a slowing-up effect.

These causes operate in the way supposed, but it is so difficult to measure thousands of years of the most careful observations would be required to detect them by means of the earth would increase. Then the year would appear to have the same length as before.

Why do we all like babies?

They're pretty and dimpled and chubby and rolypoly and blue-eyed—and the main thing is—babies don't care a whop about anything or anybody, anywhere, any time, anyhow.

And that's the secret of their wonderfulness.

"What does a baby care for you or me, or the President of the United States or the Akhond of Swat, or Pa or Ma, or anybody?"

"Not a thing—not the blink of an eyelash—not the slightest perturbation of a hair."

"If a baby likes you, he'll make up his mind to like you, whether you're old or young, rich or poor, homely or handsome, whether he likes you, he'll make a friend at you—up puffyfooting about him. He knows a baby who loves him and he doesn't care who else knows it."
